HOC - LABORATORY

HOC – Hypermedia Open Centre, laboratory of the Electronic and Information Department of the Politecnico di Milano, was founded in 1996. It inherited a legacy of activities dating back to 1988. Its interests focus on the Internet, multi-media applications, design methodologies, “net-society” applications and innovative computer mediated communication (CMC). Its applications span from electronic commerce to cultural heritage, from e-learning to advanced 3D environments for education. The laboratory is “open” in that it gathers a multidisciplinary team of researchers, recruited not just from the academic world.
